MAYSVILLE TURNSTHE.

. Millersburgh, Nov. 5, 1826. JOHN BRADFORD, E-q.

SIR:-We transmit you the

Maysville Engle, which contains the proceedings of the citizens of this place and its neighborhood in relation to the Maysville and Lexingt a Incupike. proposed for its execution, yet, nevertheless, we are persuaded that you will let the views we have taken of the matter fied a place in the "Gazette."

We are anxious that the work should be speedily accomplished, and are of opinion that the plan suggested by ns will be the most certain to complete it forthwith; and give general satisfaction after it is completed.

At any rate let the Legislature have all the light upon the subject possible, and they will doubtless single out the hest conrec.

Respectfully,

TURNPIKE MEETING.

Pursuant to a public notice, a portion of the citizeus of Bonrbon and Nicholas counties assembled at the Meetinghouse in Millersburgh, on Saturday the 16th tostaut, at 2 o'clock P. M. The object of the meeting having been stated by Mr. Griffith, Lewis Vimont, Esq. was called to the chair, and Aquilla Willet appointed secretary. A motion was then made that the Circular of the Maysville corresponding Committee should be read, which was decided in the affirmative.

A. D. Maun, then rose and observed, that he most cordially united with the citizens of Maysville upon the principle, that the great road from that town to Lexington ought to he speedily turnpiked; and that he really admired the enterprising dispo sition manifested by them to proposing to take the stock of the first four miles within themselves. But be said, that this was a project be sincerely trusted would be accomplished by his country, and not like the Louisville caual, given up to a company of individuals to make princely fortunes upon. He, therefore, would read a preamble and resolutions, which he had hastily drawn up, that would fully em brace his views on the subject.

Kentucky is, doubtless, by this time, deeply impressed with the importance of Internal Improvements. If she is not, she should be; for they arc of peculiar worth. They serve as a stepping-structo wealth and independence. This branch of industry, east to west, from north to south, to feast his imwhen brought into operation, dispels the data and lowering clouds of adversity which hover over a people, and place them fairly in the simshine of prosperity. It is a fact, which will dely contradiction in truth, that for the last few years Kentneky has been in a most languishing condition, and all her well incant efforts to remove the weighty barthen of distress from the shoulders of her citizens has proved abortive. Her unmerous remedial laws have disappointed the expectation of their project ors. They bave been deceptive and delusive. Demonstrative proof has been given, that no relief can be of a permanent or durable nature, but that which is dig from the bowells of the earth. It, therefore, becomes the indispensable duty of the people of this commonwealth to rely no longer on the fancibil hope, that time, with its vicissitudes, will alleviate soften the misfortunes onder which they have so long laboured. Something of a substructed mature must be adopted before they can extricate themselves from the diletoma into which they have unfortunately been thrown. They must turn their attention to what nature has left undone.

Amidst the many transcendent olessings which bave been showered down upon Kentucky, it is her misforume to be distantly and remotely lucated from the sea board. Situated, however, as she is, in this respect, the means are firmished to overcome in part, the disadvantages arising therefrom. Her bills may be dug down, her dales may be neightened. Abundant quarries of rock he cootignous to her roads, to make there good and level thrupikes, and thereby shorten the distance one half to the places of shipment, by the vetocity they would give to wagons and other vehicles in conveying produce away, and bringing the roturn necessary articles of merchandize of a heavy order. Binding her on the north, is a grand and majestic river, navigable for boats of every description to its mooth. Streams tributary to this run in different directions through her very heart, which are also nav.gat.e for a tew days, for small boats, in the corning season of the year. The reliance, however and then pla ced upon them for transportation, has been injurious rather than beneficial to enterprising mea, latterly. For instead of shapping their produce from Looisville or Maysville in the mouth of December. when it was in fair demand abroad, they have kept it frequently, on hand ontil in march or April, to atheroselves of the convenience afforded them by those smaller streams, when, upon reach ing its place of destination, it would scarcely defray the expense of transportation .- But the day is gone by which jostified traders in this state to wait upon the spring freshets. The great valley of the Mississippi, to the west of us, now "blosso as the rose." and by its commons surplus, with, in a few years, completely gut the commercial depot of the west, before it can possibly be reached with rain for a time did not deseend upon her vegetation flat boats, troin this or any other quarter of Kentucks, except that immediately on the banks of the Ohio. Morcover, the comptry up as far as Pitts burgh, adjacent to the river, will avail itself of the canal at Louisville, and send its traders of much earlier than it icas numberto been accustomed, thereby reaching market with its produce unich eadler and other streams of its size.

nect the waters of the O no river with those of Lake Eric, will open an cutire inland water communicafrom Maysville to the city of New-York. Then ill Kentucky turn her attention to a steady and ealthy market, and abandon New-Orleans to Indiana, Illinois and Missouri. Should the contemplated turnpike he commenced next spring, scarcely will it be completed before boats, righly leaded with produce, will be plying through the very bosom of Onio. But independently of the Ohio capal, there is one in contemplation from Wheeling to the metropolis of our government, Although you may differ with us upon the method which, if accomplished, will still upon a more di reet communication with the eastern and western cities. The good work of internal improvement is going on in other states most gloriously; and shall Kertucky remain an idle spectator of this subtime scene, standing in a mire of mud up to her neck? New-York will, in a short time, from the products of her canal, exempt her people entirely from taxation; and it is believed, that the stock of the one in Ohio will be so lucrative as to enable ber to tread in the same track. Pennsylvania, by means of a eanal, is turning her coal mines into money; and formishing a livelihood for many of her citizens who, otherwise would have been without business New-Jersey is occupied in ructing one to convey her manufactured articles and iron ore to market. A canal is nearly completed, which, when done will bring together the waters of the Delaware and Chesapeake. In short, there is no section of America but which acknowledges the utility of m ternal improvements, and is making preparatory arrangements to profit by them. Evidence in the greatest abundance is on record, to prove that the wealthiest countries on the face of the globe, are those that have paid the most attentioe to this branch of inflistry. Holland, by exeavating canals. has reaped the rich harvest of her labors, and has shown an example to the world, that they are of incalculable advantage. But we have testimony nearer home, that they are not only useful but pro-

Let us for a moment imagine that we shall never find it necessary to make our shipments from Mays ville, is the necessity of the contemplated through destroyed! There is not a road behind the mountains more travelled than the one alluded to-none scarcely in America that would be, were it turnpiked. It may almost be considered as the great highway from Maine to New Orleans. But were it in complete repair, travellers would visit this state in a ten fold degree. There are many inducements to attract the traveller and man of pleasure hither; but they are overbalanced by a middy, miery rough and hilly road. Seotland may hoast of ler romantic highlands; England of her gay regions, and France of her vine covered hills—but Kentucky can boast of her salubrious climate, her fertile field and her well timbered forests. Visit whatever por tion of the world you may, the country between this and Lexington presents as delightful an aspect in the eye of the traveller as any ever witnessed; and hence it is the desire of every one going from ment to the man of pleasure. The mineral springs in this state have already attained an exalted character abroad for the superior quality of their water; and its beneficial effect in restoring the afflicted to health. The places have bitherto been neglected in consequence of their remoteness; but wien our canals and our highways shall be completed, they will become the greatest places of fashionable resort in America. The mode of travelling will be rapid and pleasant, and a new and brilliant era in the state of affairs will be constituted. Business will revive. The sweet sound of the saw and the plain, the hammer and the anvil, and all mechanical instruments will be heard with additional life and vigor. The industrions farmer will not then toil over his plough and sickle in vain; he will be stimulated to pursue his avocation, with dilizence by the ample manner in which he will be remnuer-

But this is not all. Many individuals are now out of business, and therefore are forced to seek a a home in some more propitions state or territory This work would not only be the cause of retaining those estizea, but of farmishing them with a liveli loud. Others who possess property, and have in fortunately become embarrassed, would meet with an opportunity of disenthralling themselves, by working their hands and teams. Moreover, as soon is the hist rock is broke, money will begin to circulate, and the whole community will enjoy it as a common fund. But in addition to all this, STATE PRIDE alone ought to be sufficient to carry the work into execution. It is desirable on many accounts that this turnpike should be a state concern. Individuals will in the last resort, take the stock; but many, who would like to share the great dividend it will annually yield, are from a multiplicity of rirrounstances, not now able to become stackholders, and hence it would be monopolized altogether by capitalists. Every member of the commonwealth ought to enjoy the peculiar advantages emanating from it -not the wealthy exclusively .- Busides, the system of incorporating individual companies 1, in many wass objectionable. Should this road be turngiked at the expense of the state, it will be a comming concern, and in a lew years would afford a sufficient revenue to derray the expenses incidental to government. It may be contended, however, by the citizens in the more remote counties, that they will enjoy none of its benefits, and therefore they will array themselves in opposition to it. But will they be so selfish as to oppose a measure pregnant with the nt most good, merely because it does not operate unmediately upon them! They would deserve equally as acacheridicale as the old woman who, became prayed that none imght fall elsewhere. There is no section of the state that will not enjoy the happy effects resulting from this tumpike Yes, even the humulest individual will be a co partner in the blessings it will disseminate. The tax which he is periodically onnned for, will nitimately be entirely superseded by it. Exclusively of all this, it is nethan is practicable for boats to get out of Licking, cessary that the work should be commenced some-

After every other adjection has been overpowered, it may be said that Kentucky is too poor to indetected a work of so much magnetide. Why, marks—which, we regret to say, our remote situationly, $250,000 is a round sum of money, and it will plan from the speaker, prevented our hearing with ments, state and federal, to unite; and by one night sisty-five inites. But shall this sum be a consideration sufficient to check the commencement of the work! If Kentucky has not the funds within herself, the general government will, donotless, lend her whatever balance she may need. Congress will certainly pay due attention to any application that may be made for a loan. It eannot fail to feel a deep interest, that a work of so much importance should be spredity earried into execution. belies it is done, the mail at mo distant period must en ase to run at the breaking up of winder. But the general government will be friendly to it on other ... counts. The members of Congress from the west and south west, and all governmental otheers, have to travel upon this highway through the course of the year. Again, in the event of war, it would be nghly serviceable in transporting troops to defend our frontier or sea board. In truth, it would be a strong link in the chain which binds the several states together, composing the American Fulon therefore, assistance may confidently be expected from the general government; and with more cer lainty than otherwise, because it has never distribated one dellar of its funds in this state since the ratification of peace with Great Britain.

Resolved, That this meeting is of the opinion that t will be to the interest of Kentucky to tornpike the road from Maysville to Lexington, at her own expense, forthwitig and to extend the work as eary as possible thereafter in a south westwarniy direction to the Tennessee line

Resolved, That our senators and representatives of Bourbon and Nicholas, be requested to use exrtion in the next legislature to earry the above lesign into execution

Resolved, That in the event of an application be ng made to congress for assistance to complete and turnpike, that our representative in that body requested to solicit its aid in our behalf.

MEXICO.

The following articles of information from Mexico, we copy from the Baltimore Patriot and Gazette.

"The Mexican Congress opened its session on the fourteenth September, with great formality, and every evidence of happiness and rejoicing was exinced by the people on the interesting occosion. The Congress was discussing the propriety of laving an additional duty on all cotton and linen goods, particularly the former, which it was feared would be entirely prohibited, should the law go into operation.

"Our Minister, Mr Pointsett, was ably exerting his talents and influence in protecting the interests of the United States, and it was hoped he would be enabled to convince the Mexicans of the impolicy of the measure at the present moment, while the country requires a supply of articles fir beyond that which could be furnished from its own resources, and making it necessarily dependent upon others for many things of primary

On the 1st inst. a resolution was introduced in the Legislature of Tennessee, for "appointing a committee to confer with the supreme court on the subject of amending the present skeleton of a judiciary system." This resolution produced a debate (says the Whig and Banner) very unexpectedly in relation to the judiciary. This discussion, thus in cidentally occurring, will at least have the effect of calling the attention of the Legislature to a matter of vital importance, and will probably soon be succeeded by a more systematic cinvestigation of the questions involved in it. The indiciary committee we understand, are busily engaged in maturing | first opened their doors. and preparing a report on the subject.'

NOTES ON RENTUCKY; SECTION 13.

Early in August 1782, large detachments of ludian warriors from the Cherokee, Wyandots, Tawas and Pottowatomies, as well as from several other tribes bordering on the takes, assembled in grand council at Chillicothe, where they were met by Simon Girty and M'Kee, two renegado white men, unprincipled in disposition, and stained with, the blood of innocent women and children, their lives were assimilated to the customs and habits of the Indians, from which, and their general knowledge of the white prople, they had acquired the confidence of the Indians, were faithful to their interests, and assisted at and were conspicuous in their councils.

Girty in order to inflame the minds of the young warriors against the Kentuckians, took an elevated stand, when he disengaged his arm from his blanket, assumed the attitude of an Orator, and to by a stratigem of the following nature:-It has at ty commanding address, took the liberty of replythe painted savage assembly, equipped in all the ready been stated, that the fire commenced early ing to him. In the first place Mr Reynolds admitted habillaments of war, delivered the following address:

"BROTHERS .- The fertile region of Kentucky, is the land of cane and elover-spontaneously growing to feed the buffaloe, the elk and the deer; there the hear and the beaver are always fatthe Indians from all the tribes, have had a right from time immemorial, to bunt and kill unmolested these wild animals, and bring off their skins, to purchase for themselves elothing .- To buy blankets for their backs and rum to send down their throats, to drive away the cold and rejoice their hearts after the fatigues of bunting and the toil of war. (great applause from the croud.) But

"Brothers, The long knives* have overrun your country and usurped your bunting grounds-they have destroyed the cane-trodden down the clover-killed the deer and the buffaloe, the bear and the raccoon:-The beaver has been chased from his dainf and forced to leave the country. (palpable emotion among the hearers.)

The intruders on your lands exult in the success that has crowned their flagitions acts .- They are building cabbins and making roads on the very ground of the Indian camp and war-path.-They are planting fruit trees and ploughing the lands where not long since were the case break and clover field .-- Was there a voice in the trees of the forest, or articulate sounds in the gurgling waters, every part of this country would call on you to chase away these inthless invaders, who are laying it waste .- Unless you rise in the majesty of your might, and extermioate their whole race, you may bid adied to the hunting ground of your fathers -to the delicious flesh of the animals with you were once enabled to purchase your clothing easterly wind, which drove the flames from the from the express. The loan of the Indians was very and your rum."

Induned to frenzy with this harrangue, the young warriors expressed their approbation, and evinced their determination to comply with the recommendations of the speaker, by extending an outstretched arm towards Kentucky, (grasping the tomahavk) and sticking it into the ground with a hedions yell. The old warrars signified their approbation by a lond sonerous Grant!

No sooner had Girty concluded his harrangue, than the Indians took up the line of march for Kentueky, with the determination first to take Bryan's station, after which to act as ciccumstances should,

Bryan's station contained about forty cabbins, built so as to form a parallelogram of about 200 ment on the hank of the creek to the party at the proposition to sell their lands and remove to the yards long and 50 wide, and where the houses did not join, the vacancy was filled up with pickels. Bryan's station or fort, ave miles North East from Loxington, became the most exposed point in Kentricky, after the destruction of Ruddle's and Martin's stations in the year 1780. The death of Wilhan Bryan who died of a wound received near the amitte of Cane not, in discouraged his friends that they returned to North Carolina, and the greater part of the population from that state, left the fort about the same time, which would have so reduced

POETRY.

FOR THE GAZETIE. Behold him on the highest peak. Dehold him on the highest peak, Projecting o'er the sea, Press'd close upon by those who seek, To set his spirit free.

A single step, if he press on, He meets the surge below; If he returns, he falls upon The Falchions of the foe.

What think you of his wretched flight? is he in dark despan? Oh! no -for he b nords a light, Refulgent shaning there.

That light is Hore—it cheers his soul, It sets the pusher free; Nought can its power on him control, None can its force foresee.

Thus Hope, the wretched man's best friend, In time of greatest need, Supports his spirits to the end, And proves a friend indeed. OSCAR.

WISCELLANEOUS.

A person asking now it happened, that many bean tiful tadies took up with indifferent husbands, after many fine offers, was thus aptry answered by a mountain maiden. A young friend of hers requested her to go into a delightful cauebrake, and got him the haudsomest reed. She must get it in once going through, without turning. She went, and coming out, brought him quite a mean reed, when he asked her if that was the handsomest s take up with any one I could flud."

Delicate Compliment .- A young lady being addressed by a gentleman much older than bersell. observed to inin, the only objection she had to an union with him, was the probability of his dying before her, and leaving uer to feel the surrows of widowhood. To which he made the following ingenious and delicate complimentary reply .- "Blessed is the man that has a virtuous wife, for the number of his days shall be donoted."

FROM THE NEW ENGLAND FARMER.

Detraction .- The lies of an angry detractor are more various than the colours of the prismatic glass, more fantastic in shape than the creation of a poet eye which gives to any nothing a local habituation a. da name. To combat them is to heat the air. I hough the phantoms are like the heads of the Hydra, time usually destroys them.

Winter .- The length of the evenings in winter, which randers it necessary to find some schemary and do nestic diversion, may also contribute to render reading a more favorite amusement in winter t an in summer. Books enable the imagination to or a'e a summer in the midst of frost and snow; and we the assistance of cheerfut are, whose comfor the de warmth supplies the absence of the sun, the winter may be made as pleasant as the season of server reeze or solar clingence.

Definition of a Lary's Albam .- An instrument of torture invented by some cruel foir one to rack the brates of her male acquaintance.

Head Dresses .- A quaint writer observes that "the most elegant women, in the must classica! times, adarmed their heads with ornaments which raised them so high, as to leave it a matter of doubt whether the head was a part of the body, or the hody a part of the head.

Desition of a woman.—A wicked old Greek water gave the following very singular definition: Woman is an animal delighting in thery."

Solid Comfort - May be copiously derived from the tohowing sources: - A quiet conscience; health; liperty; one 3 time one's ox b, or if not, uschilly innecessity and moderately comployed by others; a freedom from mordinate parsions of all kinds; a hahit of living with one stocome, and of saving some thing for extraordinary occasions; an ability aris ing from rational economy to defroy all necessary and moderate expenses; a habit of good Romer, and aptitude to be pleased tather than offended, a pre paration for adversity, love for one's family; sincer ity to friends; benevolence to manuful, and prety to Gid.

Matrimony .- Experience has long pronounced those marriages the bappiest, in which the contract ing parties are of a condition nearly equal; so that when the first ardors of love are a lated by time peither can assume a superiority, or think it a con descension to have accorded to the napital alli-aturated with a solution of common salt, applied o wens will certainly remove them.

A little money is a good thing in the ontsel of life, if a person has wisdom to make a right and judicious use of it. But the head and the pocket must balance well-the scale must be equi poised-for if one or the other kicks the beam, a! little wil, the world will over reach you; if too tents of it, will slip through your fingers A mong the dangers to which heredilary wealth subjects us. are pride, indolence, extravagance, and the smaller the portion of our unheritance, the more danger is there. But what is most extraordinary is, that these very evils, are often aursed up in the cradle with the child, cherish ed with growth, and instilled into all his habits as he passes thro' the routine of his education, by parental care and misjudging affection.

Cornelia was an heiress. That is, she was worth some thousands of dollars-I never knew exactly the sum; common report speaks the whole truth in these matters, and it is rather an mannerly to inquire very particularly into a lady fortune.

She was indulged by her kind friends abroad sent to the most fashionable school. The mistress duly advised that she was a peculiarly delicate girl, with most exquisite sensibilities. and a rare genius; and was to be Ireated with all becoming tenderness and consideration, There she learned a lew of the useful and a great many of the ornemental branches laught confined in the State prison to hard labor auring bers shall have been obtained to defray the expense in such seminaries; and was finally dispatched life. to a hoarding school to finish her education; a) polite, fashionable, elegant education; with any thing to do.

She was now an accomplished lady; she understood French and painting; was versed in Belles Letters; knew something of philosophy, untural and moral; had gone the round of the sciences; wrote poetry, kept an album; under stood music, and was finally fitted out at home with a fine parlour and a piano. "What a fine fine lady; how fashionable; how perfectly gen-

It was even so; and the first difficulty which arose, was about the choice of that vexations, but still no less necessary evil-a husband. The pretty girl who has the whole world of beaux to choose from, sometimes finds it difficult to make a perfect, unobjectionable choice. It was not then to be wondered at that Cornelia should be embarrassed in making a selection; for she was circumscribed in her sphere by the very small cumpass of perfectly genteel people like hersell. Such an one with a good substantial fortune too, was to be sought. Her stars favored her at last, however, and she was married -married to a young gentleman as accomplished as herself; one who had as many eulogies at his finger ends as buttons on his coat-au A. B & a profession; who drove tandem with one hand; winged a pigeon at every shot and drank nothing but Madeira.

It was said the young gentleman and lady each a little disappointed in the matter of she replied, "I saw many mer, as I went along, the other's fortune and that in the outset there but I kept on, to hopes of a much better, nutil I had was a trilling jar on the subject of linances, but got nearly through, and theo I was compelled to Cornelia adhered to her mano, and Bob to his rifle and Madeira, and all went on quite musically again. Neither of them had ever suffered so unmannerly a thought, as that of how to get a living when their cash was gone, to enter their heads-but fortune in all these cases, has a plain matter of fact way of dealing with even the most genteel people, and when they have spent their fast itollar, just turns them out of house as unceremoniously as if they were no better than common tolks-She never works a miracle to sustain those who never learned or had the disposition to work any thing themselves. And so it turned out in this case.

While the piano was in tune in the parlour, and every thing out of tune in the kitchen, while the master drank Madeira above stairs and the servants were drunk with coginac below stairs; or pound-which they warrant shall not be inferior to while in the midst of the best company, the best any made in the state hiving and dreaming af nothing but pleasure and ". They hope to receive such a share of public pathying and dreaming af nothing but pleasure and amusement, one of Bob's creditors rapped his knuckles; 'the bailins are an ill-bred set, they know just as much about grutility, and all that sort of thing, as a bear about a totlet, and therecorpets, the plate, the side-board and even the very piano was levied on

Still, so far as physical ability was concerned, it was not too late perhaps to turn the current of affairs. There was a plant and ready remedy tor the disease, even in its present state; an eatire change of living and of habits; economy for extravagance, and industry for milolence. But hard it is for those who have been thus educated the United States also; he flatters himself he will

I made many enquires after them among the villagers, and ha nally discovered that Robert and his wife had separated; that he had exchanged his dogs and gun for a far hat and a blue jacket, was a wanacreg on the sea; and the elegant and accomplished Cornelia, instead of thumning a piano, was
